

My community

I am as unique as an individual I can be,

I play as many sports as I can because it gives me an opportunity to be a leader to people,

Even when people doubt me and my capabilities, I persevere until people begin to believe in me,

The greatest feeling of all though to me is helping others through tough times, and talking to them to resolve the things in their life that feel evil,

The communities I am a part of have shaped me into a better person than I thought I could ever become.

There are two families in my life that are the most influential beside my own, my husky family and the amputee community;

My husky family has changed me from a boy into a man, and has taught me not only how to be an intelligent student, but also a loving person, who cherishes and loves everyone,

I am an amputee, and I have met so many others during my lifespan, and they have left such a big impact on me that I wouldn't know where I would be without them. They taught me how to walk, run, tie my shoes, and even taught me how to ride a bike, and for that, I am so glad that I will always have that opportunity.

Every community can be a beautiful one, especially if all voices are heard, and ideas are spread around floating through the minds of others.

With this, we have the ability to teach everyone on this earth the importance of equality, which will allow for people to learn and cherish other races, religions, and genders, which I was so fortunate to gain over the years.

It has been a blessing to be able to meet so many great people, and I would love for everyone to be able to understand how a complete stranger, and someone who has had a completely different life than you have had, can become your brother

That is why these communities are so important to us all, because it gives us a goal for who we want to become, as well as it can give the world a goal, and that goal is to have racial injustice disappear.
